14. – 16. soruları aşağıdaki parçaya göre cevaplayınız.

Chronic psychological stress depends much more on the person than on what happens to him. Someone promoted above his abilities will probably be under constant stress – but some personalities may not be aware of the pressure, or of not being up to the job. On the other hand, someone in a position well within his abilities may carry it out with constant drive and tension. Perhaps it is because he does not realize he can do it easily; or because he wants to win promotion; or simply because that is his way of going about things.

14. The main argument of the passage is that ----.
- A) stress is more related to personality than to the external conditions
- B) stress results from difficult environmental conditions
- C) some people work better under stress
- D) people of high ability cope better with stress
- E) chronic stress may lead to serious disorders
15. Some people ----.
- A) misunderstand the term "stress"
- B) are afraid of being promoted
- C) work well when they are promoted
- D) do not notice how much pressure they are under in their work
- E) take on any work they happen to find
16. A person often experiences tension in his work ----.
- A) because he deserves promotion
- B) until he has been properly trained
- C) if he is particularly easy-going
- D) if there isn't adequate competition
- E) when he underestimates his capabilities
